

Quakers Hill High School In the Media 2011

Publication: Rouse Hill Times Date: 15th of June Year: 2011 Focus: The 7 Deadly Sins

Active

He is a champion 34

Food, glorious food 36

Deadly sins alive and well decade later

ALEX CAUCHI

QUAKERS HILL

STUDENTS at Quakers Hill High School are deep in rehearsal mode as they prepare for the world premiere of The Seven Deadly Sins, written by drama teacher Deborah Franco.

The play examines the lives of children during their teen years, contrasted with their lives at a dinner party 10 years later, with personifications of the seven deadly sins spread throughout.

"It contrasts their hopes and dreams with what actually happens," Ms Franco said.

"We also look at the play through the game of truth or dare."

Ms Franco said she was particu-

WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW

What: The Seven Deadly Sins
Where: Quakers Hill High School
70 Lalor Rd, Quakers Hill
When: Wednesday June 22-Friday
June 24 (6.30pm)
Details: 9837 1533

larly impressed with the performance of student Tom McDonell who plays the role of food critic Phat Prestham.

McDonell said his mother had insisted he watch episodes of Ten's MasterChef to brush up on the role. "Mum's been forcing me to watch it, so I've based the character on Matt Preston," McDonell said.

Callista Banks is the devil in red in Quakers Hill High's The Seven Deadly Sins.

Picture: ISABELLA LETTINI